

Yamamura Laboratory

- In this laboratory, we study numerical analysis of nonlinear circuits and systems. Most of our studies are based on theory and computer simulation.
- We use various mathematical techniques for solving nonlinear circuits and systems.
- The right-hand pictures show the bipolar analog integrated circuit with more than 20000 elements, which was developed by using our algorithm of the homotopy method.

